HOLOCAUST MEMORIAL DAY IN THE UK

2013 AND BEYOND

HOLOCAUST MEMORIAL DAY IN THE UK: 2013 AND BEYOND

27 January provides an opportunity for everyone to learn lessons from the Holocaust, Nazi Persecution and subsequent genocides in Cambodia, Rwanda, Bosnia and Darfur and apply them in the present day to create a safer, better future. Holocaust Memorial Day (HMD) is marked by thousands of people around the UK, who come together in schools, workplaces and public spaces.

From candle lightings to civic gatherings, inter-faith services to dramatic performances HMD activities involve all members of the community. Through online engagement, thousands more help to make sure that Holocaust Memorial Day and its important messages reach our collective consciousness. Each activity, big or small, public or private, online or inperson plays a vital role in the UK marking HMD.

The Holocaust Memorial Day Trust (HMDT) promotes and supports HMD. We encourage participation in HMD by providing free resources, advice and support, running free workshops across the UK and producing the annual theme for HMD. We also organise the annual UK commemorative event for HMD.

Holocaust Memorial Day has a tangible impact on individuals and communities who organise or attend commemorative activities. Each year we identify a theme to inspire new and creative responses to HMD.

For HMD 2013, Communities Together: Build a Bridge, we asked people to remember and honour those communities which were destroyed in the Holocaust, under Nazi Persecution and in subsequent genocides. In the past, groups turned their backs on former neighbours, colleagues and even friends who faced persecution for being different. This year, communities came together to reflect on the appalling costs of such divisions. By celebrating difference and ensuring respect for all, people around the UK built bridges to a safer, better future.

This booklet contains just a snapshot of the many ways people engage with the message of HMD and of its continued growth in the UK. It also introduces our 2014 theme, Journeys.

'I think 'what's the point of talking?' The things are still carrying on, the atrocities. But seeing all these people here, I will have to change my mind and think there is some hope. I feel touched that there is a special day to mark the Holocaust.'

Ivor Perl, Holocaust survivor, inspired by the attendance at the Redbridge Service for HMD 2012 Students in Kirklees build bridges at a HMD 2013 activity in Dewsbury Town Hall. Kirklees Council invited visitors to 'travel' from Hungary to Albania and back to Kirklees, challenged them to learn about building bridges between communities, and remembered the events of the Holocaust.

THE IMPACT OF HMD

SHAFTESBURY HIGH SCHOOL STUDENT OVERCAME FEARS

'After seeing Holocaust survivor Freda Wineman speak at the 2012 UK Event, one of my special needs students who had previously been nervous of speaking in public was inspired to share a poem at our school's HMD Event. Since that time, his self-esteem has grown markedly and he recognises the substantial impact of taking part.'

Jess Hamilton, Citizenship Coordinator at Shaftesbury High School OUR LEAD YOUTH CHAMPION JOSH WHATSIZE IS PASSIONATE TO SHARE THE MESSAGE OF HMD

'After visiting Auschwitz in 2010 (with Holocaust Educational Trust's Lessons from Auschwitz Project) I wanted to help others understand the importance of learning about the Holocaust. I became Youth Champion to share the message of HMD with other young people and wrote and produced a play which is to tour locally and feature in Scotland's National HMD 2013 activities. I am so inspired by young people's reactions to stories of the Holocaust.'

2012 FILM INSPIRED COURT MOOR STUDENTS TO DO MORE FOR HMD 2013

After watching the 2012 film and making the pledge, staff and students at Court Moor School in Hampshire, channelled their new-found passion to create a display showing what the 2012 theme meant to them.

Participants decided to hold a public event for the school community for HMD 2013.

OUR REGIONAL, YOUTH AND MUSIC & VOICE WORKSHOPS REACHED HUNDREDS OF PEOPLE IN THE LEAD UP TO HMD 2013 AND THE MESSAGE WILL CASCADE TO THOUSANDS MORE

'Despite being a non-musical teacher from a Glasgow Secure Unit, I felt so welcomed! I am inspired to ensure that our young people will participate musically on HMD.'

Gabrielle Bricknell, Health and Wellbeing Teacher, Glasgow.

THE IMPACT OF HMD

DERBY CITY COUNCIL WILL MARK HMD FOR 13TH CONSECUTIVE YEAR

'2013 will be the thirteenth year that Derby City Council will commemorate HMD. Since inception, I have seen a tangible impact on cultural understanding in the community, and increased awareness of the issues amongst our young people.'

Collette Flood, Derby City Corporate Manager.

HARTLEPOOL COLLEGE STUDENTS ENSURED THEIR HMD COMMEMORATION HAD A TANGIBLE IMPACT BEYOND THE DAY

'As part of the HMD 2012 event, we collected used eye glasses from community members. In partnership with Specsavers these were donated to Vision Aid Overseas to help those in the third world with sight problems.'

Brian Barnes, RESPECT TEAM, Hartlepool College of Further Education EXETER PRISON BECAME A SAFER INSTITUTION

'Hate-related incidents have decreased from approximately 140 annually pre-HMD to only 16 so far this year, since I first commemorated HMD with my prisoners as part of a programme of equalities work.'

Prison Equalities worker, HMP Exeter, October 2012.

SUSSEX POLICE IMPLEMENT PROGRAMME OF SPEAKERS AFTER HMD 2012.

'Rwandan genocide eye-witness Alex Ntung spoke movingly to Sussex Police staff for HMD 2012. Following this, staff were inspired to implement a programme of speakers to ensure that the message of HMD is continued throughout the year.'

'The play The Good and the True toured to five different locations in the UK, including a theatre and prison in Leeds. As the play explores issues of stereotyping, hatred and discrimination there is potential for significant positive impact in the prison.'

SCOTLAND

'Glasgow City Council Education Services in conjunction with the Glasgow Film Theatre hosted a public screening of Hotel Rwanda. This was followed with a Q & A with Rwandan genocide survivor and forgiveness campaigner Jean Paul Samputu.'

WALES

'In Bridgend school children created poetry with a local poet, a youth choir sung, diverse community members did readings, and the local youth theatre and the Mayor also made contributions. There was also a strong visual metaphor of bridges featured, embracing this vear's theme.'

SOUTH WEST

'Taunton's civic event is organised in a partnership between six different organisations. This alone really embodies the spirit of this year's theme. Key components were songs by Somerset County Council Choir, the giving of the Anne Frank Award and involvement of diverse communities in the area.

NORTH WEST

'Salford City Council involved libraries. schools, and community organisations in their HMD 2013 commemoration. This included a formal ceremony featuring a Holocaust survivor speaker and performances by the BBC Philharmonic.'

LOOKING FORWARD - HMD 2014 JOURNEYS

The experience of those affected by the Holocaust, Nazi Persecution and subsequent genocides that took place in Cambodia, Rwanda, Bosnia and Darfur are characterised by forced journeys. Many of these journeys ended in death: persecutors forcibly moved huge numbers of people - in trains, cattle trucks and on death marches, from homes in villages and towns and across countries. In many of these cases, the journeys themselves became part of the process of genocide. Some journeys ended in survival: when those persecuted made journeys to escape, some in disguise, some into hiding. There are journeys too, made after liberation: to life in new countries, or returning home to the places where neighbours may have contributed to the oppression, or turned a blind eye.

On HMD 2014 we can remember those who undertook journeys of terror and those of hope, and we can learn about the journeys that brought survivors to the UK where they rebuilt their lives and where they share their stories today.

HOLOCAUST MEMORIAL DAY 2014

'Holocaust Memorial Day is an opportunity to build bridges between communities — to unite, to remember, reflect and to learn. Building bridges, finding common ground and embracing differences must be the answer.'
